NOTES/SEATING CHART PUZZLE

answer: 52376chad

Chad is the black briefcase. You are told that David has a briefcase and that it isn't black. That means he is either at the red briefcase or at the blue briefcase. You are also told that David sat across from Orville. That means Orville has to either be at the black briefcase (across from the blue briefcase which is a possible for David) or at the green backpack (across from the red briefcase which is the other possible for David). You are told in the jukebox unlock that Orville is beside Chad.

Technically, Chad could be at either the black briefcase or the green backpack (and Orville at whichever one Chad wasn't at) and still satisfy the rules. So we need to finish placing everyone else.

We know that Roderick is at the orange bag because you are told that teal is what happens when you combine green and blue (which would be in the middle of the two), and Roderick's message tells you that he is in the place where teal should be, which means he's in the orange spot.

Since Max is between a bag and a briefcase, we know that he is either at the blue briefcase or at the green backpack. We know that Orville and Chad have to be at the black briefcase and the green backpack for this to work, based on earlier information, so we have to place Max at the blue briefcase. Since David only had two options and we just eliminated the blue briefcase, that means David has to be at the red briefcase. Since Orville is across from David, Orville has to be at the green backpack. With Orville placed, we know that Chad has to be at the black briefcase since we know he hates bags, and the brown bag is all that's left. This leaves Chandra/Kim for the brown bag.
