Matching Suspects with Game Characters:

Rosedriah=dead nurse (read the Countess' interview)

Jiron=Markus Kyle (Additional Patient Notes and info the Countess gives )

Azzomar=Carlton Blaise (Richard Queensacre interview and rating value)

Ifera=Frederic Le Grange (Map/Dry Erase Board )

Kurkellan=Ronald Emerson (The King in Yellow Puzzle/Refrigerator Magnet Message on Case Brief and info on Ronald Emerson )

Brakor=Mitchell Yardmore (in the suspect info page we are told Mitchell Yardmore fixated on the number 80 and Brokors overall rating is 80)

Samazel=Abigail Crowley (Rorschach evaluation )

Lyscil, Tharok, Neyrper-not used (see eye chart puzzle)

The King in Yellow Puzzle

Strange Black and White Letter (gray background)

My character hails from a land of extreme cold. I've done a bunch of horrible things, things I regret, things that landed me here. But I only did bad things to people who deserved it. I would never kill someone who was trying to do good.

(Read the message backwards or in a mirror)

Session Notes with Le Grange

No one plays with stars

Use the eye chart with session notes from Frederic Le Grange

Map

Fred corresponds to Ertá. In the interview with The Countess she tells us that Ifera hails from the land of Ertá. Thus, Frederic Le Grange is Ifera.

(The white board and the map go together)

Eliminating Suspects:

Ronald Emerson: In Mitchell Yardmore's drawing he says "When darkness meets a golem, so mysterious and solemn...Under blood red skies, they remain closest allies." Rosedriah's magic ability is the Call of Darkness and Kurkellan (Emerson) is a frost price whose magic ability is Ice Golems. Darkness and Ice are allies which indicates that the people those characters represent (nurse and Emerson) are friends."

Carlton Blaise: In the interview with Richard Queensacre, he tells you that the person with an overall rating of 73 is allies with the Witch Queen and assures you that person would never kill her. Azzomar is the character whose overall rating is 73. We link Blaise to Azzomar because of the nickname The Valley Falls Observer gave him after his killing spree: The All-Seeing Eye (which, incidentally, is the skill ability for Azzomar).

Frederic Le Grange: From his interview-"Frederic frequently communicates his thoughts by writing them down in strange ways, however, it is unclear whether the bizarre methods he uses to communicate mirror whatever he is feeling at the moment." Mirror is the key word here and links to the backwards message. The mirrored message reads: "My character hails from a land of extreme cold. I've done a bunch of horrible things, things I regret, things that landed me here. But I only did bad things to people who deserved it. I would never kill someone who was trying to do good." Because we've linked Frederic to Ifera with the Map/Dry Erase board and deduce that he wrote the backwards message which references a character coming from a land of extreme cold, we read his testimony about never killing someone who was trying to do good and eliminate him as a suspect.

Mitchell Yardmore: In the Update section on the Valley Falls Lawn Care website it says: "There is a character in the game called Brakor who only kills men. Women and children are off limits because of a moral code that was developed at some point in the character's backstory." We are able to link Yardmore to Brakor by the statement in his interview notes that says, "Another strange thing about him is his affinity for the number 80." 80 is Brakor's overall value.

Abigail Crowley: Protocol unlock on the Valley Falls Lawn Care website says that Hacksaw isn't a woman.

Markus Kyle: is the killer
