Mary Johns's message

I have never felt this way about anybody. You certainly have lived up to your name so far. Such a gentleman. I can't imagine you ever killing anybody. I have considered your request, and I think the risks are worth it. I will give you my key. I know you have a session with Dr. Blackthorn at 2:30. I can slip in earlier in the day and leave the key under the mat in the doctor's executive washroom. Also, there are a couple of systems that my work badge will get you into. The password is on my badge, but enter it like my message is written. Once you are free of Saturn Hills, we will run away together and live happily ever after. All my love, Mary.

How to Eliminate Suspects

Below are details on how each suspect is eliminated. If you would like just to get a nudge on where to look so you can make the eliminations yourself, go to the How to Eliminate Suspects page in the Hint Files

The message from session 10 reveals the time of death to be 2:52.

Mary Johns - In the transcript of the phone conversation with King's Court Technologies, Blackthorn mentions that his assistant is off campus taking a late lunch. We know Blackthorn is the one on the phone because of his voice memo, and we know Mary is his assistant based on the notes about her.

Norman Blackthorn - In the security logs unlock, you can see that on the day of the murder, Blackthorn left the building during the time of the murder.

Isabella James - In Clarissa's letter, she mentions that she needs to protect Isabella because Isabella is non-violent. This means Isabella could not be the killer.

Margaret Philips - In Koch's message using the pill bottle, he reveals that Margaret is not part of the escape plan. So, she is not one of the people who have a reason to kill Koch.

Matthew Finch - In Koch's message on the painting, he mentions that Finch can't use his right arm. This would make it impossible for him to be Koch's killer since the killer would have had to overpower Koch and then hang him.

Clarissa Simon - In Koch's message from Session 10 with the coins, he reveals that Clarissa wants to keep him safe and has tipped him off about the others' plans to kill him. This makes it highly unlikely for Clarissa to be the killer.

Thaddeus Mitchell - In Koch's message from session 9 that uses the phone, he mentions that Thaddeus is not part of the plan. So, he is not one of the people who have a reason to kill Koch.

John Bartholomew - Bartholomew, or as he is known by his friends, Fix-It, was at the breaker box during the murder. Unlike the others, you are able to confirm that Fix-It was doing his part of the plan since the power went out.

Gavin Thomas - The message from the medical bracelet reveals that Gavin isn't the killer since the Koch's killer is talking to Gavin and telling him to go forward with the plan while he(The killer) "takes care of Judas(Koch)." This also confirms that the killer is part of Gavin's escape plan, which adds to Thaddeus and Margaret's elimination as suspects.
